Abhi does an excellent job introducing game theory and research theory and applying it to accounting. It is a very challenging class but the professor does everything in his power to engage and support students
The instructor was available when I needed help with the topic of my project and gave feedback on how to improve my research paper.
I really liked this course and the way that it was taught. It was really challenging, but in a good way where I was forced to learn.
This class was very academically challenging and demanding. However, the professor did an outstanding job in breaking down complex ideas and theories for us to understand at our level of study. This class was a great intro into graduate level studies. Abhi was always available for help when needed and was happy to further explain topics when required. He went above and beyond to turn a difficult class into a positive learning experience.
This was one of my favorite accounting courses. The research and analytical modeling approach to accounting was very new and unlike the traditional accounting courses. I thought that the content and how Abhi taught the class was excellent and invaluable for anyone interested in a PhD in accounting, or just any research-based graduate program. As someone who has done a research-based MA program before, I can say that if I took a class like this during my time in that program, I would have been more successful. ACC 616 teaches you the fundamentals of constructing research questions, addressing internal validity and bias, and tools/knowledge to analyze academic work--basically everything a researcher should have under their belt before doing research. If I could, I would recommend other grad students interested in research to take this class!
This professor is very enthusiastic about this class and is dedicated to helping us understand difficult concepts. Despite how hard the topics could be, he was always thorough and receptive to answering questions. He seems very dedicated to forcing us to think critically in class and on exams. 10/10, no notes on improvements.
Abhi was a great instructor and really knowledgeable. He also made the lessons easy to understand by making it relatable to us. The tests and quizzes were hard, but that just helped push me to study harder.
I like that professor is approachable for clarifying the concepts and go over what I'm not sure about in class.
Despite the challenging nature of the course content, I am grateful to have had Abhi as my teacher. His course was well organized and planned. He demonstrates deep knowledge during his lectures and makes content engaging by connecting it with real-world examples. I also appreciate his willingness to meet with me outside of class to discuss any questions or concerns.
